

President's Report
2012 AGM

It has been a quiet year for this year's executive, but we have had to deal with a number of things.

With the changes to the Library and Archives Canada, we have moved our publications to the University of Alberta for an interim period. We will be moving our archives to Memorial University soon after our AGM and also establishing a new postal address. A number of people have resigned from committee work...so again this year, you will be hearing requests for volunteers to sit on these committees.

A new development has come about from the federal government: our incorporated status falls under a new act, the Canada Not-for-Profit Act. We have until October 17, 2014 to complete our paperwork to "continue" as ACMLA, but we have an opportunity to change our bylaws and structure without paying fees or having the minister sign off the changes. This gives us a chance to move ACMLA in directions we want it to go for our future.

I want to thank my fellow board members for their dedication to their roles with ACMLA. It was a pleasure to work with you this past year. Also thank you to all the chairs and committee members for your work and dedication to ACMLA. As I have written before, the strength of any organization is its people and ACMLA has intelligent, creative members who tackle the many issues facing their respective institutions and profession. Our future as an organization relies on these same qualities.
